Getting started

My name is Don Toro. I will guide you through this book. Are you already following me on Twitter? Pay close attention to what I say. Read this page carefully before starting on chapter 1!

Important! A red text box shows what we will be learning in the chapter.

A blue text box relates to pronunciation. Read the list of words first and then listen once or twice to the number on your audio medium.

A green text box is a:
Learn Carefully text box.

Each yellow text box or speech bubble provides an explanation.

1. Download the pupil manual from the www.juanyrosa.nl/en-uk website and read it carefully. Learn the meanings of the different colours in this book!
2. Sign up to Edmodo.com, create an account, and ask Don Toro (dontoro.espanja@gmail.com) for the group code.
3. To get started, begin with the chapter 1 in 'el libro de texto' and learn all the words listed in the green boxes.
4. At the end of chapter 1 move on to chapter 1 of 'las Tareas' (the workbook) and complete all the exercises in the white boxes, in any order you like. Tick the relevant box every time you finish an exercise. Follow the instructions in the manual as you work and keep a close eye on what the bull, Don Toro, tells you. If you have any questions, you can always ask Don Toro (dontoro.espanja@gmail.com), but remember that if you think logically you probably know more than you realise.
5. Sign up on the "Rosa de Espanja" Facebook page to make contact with other children who are learning Spanish with Juan y Rosa and to keep in touch with them by email or on Facebook (www.facebook.com/rosadeespanja) – preferably in Spanish!
6. Keep a look-out for Spanish all around you – there's more than you think...! Listen to Spanish interviews and music, watch the channel TVE on television or the internet, use the internet to help you with exercises when shown, read a recommended book and, last but not least, regularly read the news on the Juan y Rosa websites:

www.juanyrosa.nl/en-uk and www.facebook.com/juanyrosadeespanja.

The sounds of Spanish letters

In Spanish, some letters sound the same as in English and others are pronounced differently as also explained in part 0 of this learning method Soy Don Toro. For example, the Spanish ‘e’ sound can be a little confusing because it is not a hard ‘e’ sound like in ‘bed’. It is actually pronounced softly, a bit like the ‘i’ sound of the letter ‘e’ in ‘chicken’. That’s why it’s important that you listen closely to the audio clips and videos. If you can, visit Spain or Spanish-speaking countries often – you’ll hear the correct pronunciation there – or listen to Spanish music or watch programmes on TV or online. If you need help, read the words in the blue column (“Pronunciation”) out loud based on the rules below. Then you will hear how the words should sound.

The sounds of Spanish letters.

If you see this letter in a Spanish word:	It is pronounced like this:
- r	R , roll the tip of your tongue
- j or g in front of an e, i	X , sounds like you’re clearing your throat
- g in front of an a, o, u	g , pronounced like the ‘g’ in ‘good’
- c in front of an e, i	th , pronounced like the ‘th’ in ‘thank you’
- c in front of an a, o, u	k , as a hard k sound
- z	s , at the front of your mouth
- b and v	b , pronounced with loose, relaxed lips
- h	is silent (hola = ola)
- d	d , is pronounced softly at the front of your mouth (not a ‘t’ sound)
- ñ	ny (España), pronounced like the ‘ny’ in ‘canyon’
- a, o, i	a like in ‘bat’, o like in ‘bottle’, i is like the ‘ee’ in ‘see’
- u	oo , pronounced like in ‘book’
- e	e , the single ‘e’ is pronounced like the ‘e’ in ‘chicken’

If you see an ‘e’ in the blue column, it’s pronounced like the ‘e’ in ‘chicken’. A double ‘ee’ is always pronounced like in ‘see’.

The stress is on the bold letters in a word.

The ‘X’ sounds like you’re clearing your throat. And you have to roll the tip of your tongue to make the ‘r’ and ‘rr’ (R) sounds. So get practising!

RRRRRRRRRRRRRR

| 3 |

... and don't forget the stress and intonation

Stress and intonation rules:

In Spanish, the stress is on the last but one syllable.

Rosa

If a word ends with a consonant, the stress is on the last syllable.

salir

Except if the word ends with an s or n, in which case the stress is then on the last but one syllable.

eres

If the stress in the word differs from these rules, the stressed syllable is marked by an accent.

índice

Questioning words always have an accent and extra stress.

Capítulo uno

(Chapter 1)

Juan y Rosa

(Juan en Rosa)

What will we learn in this chapter?

Learning goals:

- pronunciation
- greetings
- the verb “to be”

Juan está aquí.

Rosa está allí

¡Buenos días!

Regular.

Estoy bien.

¡Adiós!

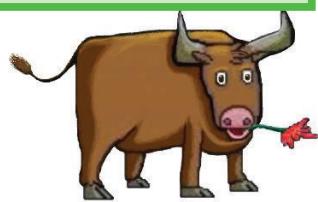

Ana es una amiga.

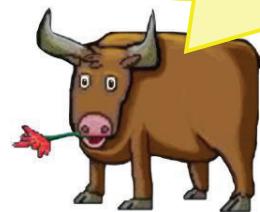

Felipe es un amigo.

The first chapter is the only one to have two parts.

Learn the list of words first, then read the text in chapter 1a.

Tip: First try to read the Spanish in the first column. If necessary, sneak a look at the pronunciation in the third column. The strange Spanish sounds are explained below. Now listen to the number on your audio medium.

Watch out: in the third column, the stress is on the bold letters.

Hello, I am Juan. And you, what's your name?

Good day, I am Rosa.

Juan: ¡Hola! Rosa. ¡Buenos días!

estoy = I am for example: I am at home = Estoy en casa.
and also: I'm fine = Estoy bien.

Practice with the games from Chapter 1a.

You and your classmate(s) will now practice the new Spanish words by playing the domino game, word list game and the sobre-mí game from Chapter 1a. When you have practiced enough, you should read the green blocks carefully on the following pages.

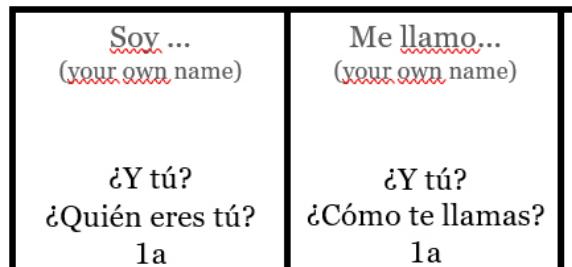

1. Start with the PDF 'domino.1a' and play the domino game from Chapter 1a.

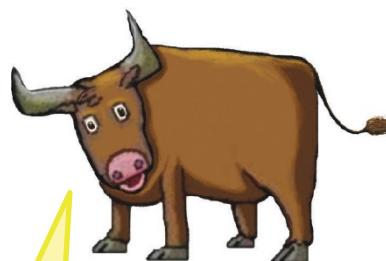

2. Then play the word list game using PDF 'words.1a'

índice	contents
¡Hola!	Hello!
¡Buenos días!	Good day, good morning!
¡Buenas tardes!	Good afternoon!

3. Lastly, play the sobre-mí game.1a using the PDF 'sobre-mí.1a'

Ready for more? If you have an account on WRTS you can practice even more at <https://leren.wrts.nl/#/lists / number.....>

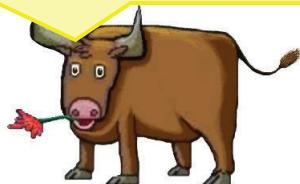

We are now going to learn the green blocks, which means reading the words and then trying to repeat them without looking.

The Spanish verbs from chapters 1a and 1b.

Every sentence contains a verb form. That is a form of a verb that relates to the subject.

Verb: estar = to be
Subject	Verb form
Yo	estoy	aquí.	I am here.
Tú	estás	allí.	You are there.
Él/ella/usted	está	en casa.	He/she/you (polite) is/are at home.
Nosotros/nosotras	estamos	aquí.	We are here.
Vosotros/vosotras	estáis	allí.	You (plural) are there.
Ellos/ellas/ustedes	están	en el camping.	They (male/female/polite) are on the campsite.

In Spanish the words yo, tú, él/ella/usted, nosotros, vosotros and ellos/ellas/ustedes are hardly ever used because the verb form makes it clear who it refers to.

In Spanish there are two verbs that mean to be:

estar and ser.

1. Estoy = I am

for a short time (also: I am located), i.e. it can change.

2. Soy = I am

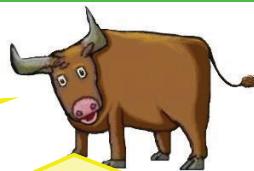

lasting, a characteristic, it will not change (soon).

Verb: ser = to be
(Subject)	Verb form
(Yo)	Soy	Juan.	I am Juan.
(Tú)	¿Eres	Rosa?	You are Rosa.
(Él/ella/usted)	Es	mi amigo.	He is my friend.
(Nosotros/nosotras)	Somos	amigos.	We are friends.
(Vosotros/vosotras)	Sois	chicos.	You are boys.
(Ellos/ellas/ustedes)	Son	chicas.	They are girls.

Verb: llamarse = to be called

(Subject)	Verb form
(Yo)	Me llamo Rosa.	My name is Rosa.
(Tú)	¿Cómo (tú) te llamas?	What's your name?
(Él/ella/usted)	Se llama Felipe.	His name is Felipe.

llamar = to call llamar + se = to call oneself llamarse = to be called

Re-read the learning goals on page 9 and then go back to chapter 1 of the workbook.
